AWS DIRECT CONNECT SERVICE NOW AVAILABLE IN COLOGIX'S MONTREAL DATA CENTRES

AWS customers can now access the new AWS Canada (Central) Region via AWS Direct Connect located at Cologix's MTL3 data centre

DENVER, CO and Montreal, QC– January 5, 2017 – Creating hybrid cloud deployments with the Amazon Web Services (AWS) Cloud just got more compelling for customers interested in connecting to AWS's new Canada (Central) Region. Cologix, a network neutral interconnection and data centre company, announced today the immediate availability of AWS Direct Connect cloud service in its Montreal data centres. As an AWS Direct Connect Partner, Cologix can offer customers secure and private connections to the AWS Cloud to improve performance and reduce costs compared to onramps via the public Internet.

This deployment with Cologix represents one of the first AWS Direct Connect locations in Montreal and will reside at Cologix's flagship interconnection hub data centre at 1250 Rene Levesque, where more than 90 network service providers are available in the Meet-Me-Room. In addition to customers at 1250 Rene Leveque, customers across Cologix's six other Montreal data centres will have access to the Direct Connect service via Cologix's Metro Connect solution. Cologix also offers its New Jersey and Dallas data center customers network connectivity to AWS Direct Connect locations in the US East (Virginia) Region.

"The AWS Direct Connect node in Montreal represents a huge win for Canadian cloud customers interested in data sovereignty,," notes Grant van Rooyen, president and CEO, Cologix. "We look forward to delivering in-market, low latency, highly secure connections to AWS that are easy to deploy."

In an environment where choice offers the ability to evolve with dynamic market forces, Cologix's Cloud Connect Platform provides more on-ramp solutions to public clouds, more physical connections to best-in-breed cloud service providers and access to more independent Internet exchanges than any other provider across its footprint.
