

COLOGIX ANNOUNCES AEROLIA AS FIRST CUSTOMER IN THEIR NEW MONTREAL DATA CENTRE, SUPPORTING AEROLIA'S EXPANDING PRESENCE IN QUÉBEC

Montréal, QC – November 20, 2013 – Cologix™, a network neutral interconnection and data center company, announced today that Aerolia, a worldwide leader in aerostructures, will be expanding their relationship with Cologix in Montreal. Aerolia's new deployment builds on nodes currently colocated with Cologix.

"Aerolia's success is built on a global network of customers, employees and partners. In Canada, Aerolia is growing through its teams based in Dorval, in Mirabel and its new site at the Montréal-Mirabel airport," explained Marc Bourret CEO of Aerolia Canada. "Cologix has supported the cohesion of this network by offering neutral access to the broadest set of networks in Montréal as well as a high level in technical standards."

"We are proud that a global and sophisticated enterprise like Aerolia views us as a critical part of their infrastructure and continues to expand in partnership with us," declared Roger Brulotte, General Manager, Cologix Montréal. "Aerolia's decision further validates the value of our locations, network density, and the quality of our infrastructure."

Cologix expects to commission Phase 1 of its new site in the coming weeks. Cologix is Montreal's network neutral colocation leader with more than 100,000 SQF of capacity within 7 data centres throughout the city.
